Marion County Prosecutor Terry Curry's statement on Court of Appeals opinion in the David Bisard case

(Indianapolis, Ind.) Below is statement from Marion Prosecutor Terry Curry on today's Indiana Court of Appeals opinion reversing the suppression of the blood draw in the state's case against Indianapolis Metropolitan Police Officer David Bisard.

"The Court of Appeals opinion announced today establishes that the blood draw performed on Officer David Bisard on August 6, 2010 was appropriate for the purposes of both the operating a vehicle while intoxicated and the criminal recklessness charges. As I said in January of 2011 when this office re-filed charges against Officer Bisard, any ambiguity in the law should be determined by the courts. We will continue to move forward to insure that the victims and their families have the opportunity to see this case brought to trial."
